Keeping a dark summer cotton dress free from lint is easier if you wash it alone or with other dark colorfast items. VPI clothing specialists say improper starting may cause streaking. Make sure starch is well-mixed and free from lumps, and darken it with some bluing. It's best to iron dark cotton on the wrong side, and to use a press cloth for touchups on the right side.

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

Handle With Care

Tractors are like horses—or mules—in more ways than one. They can be pretty tricky if you don't handle them right.

Too many tractor accidents happen because of carelessness. The day grows hot and drowsy, the job grows monotonous—and bingo! Someone forgets to throttle down when making a turn, or something, and there's a bad spill.

Credit Slim Hartman's missus for the fact that there's never been tractor trouble on their place. Midway through every morning and afternoon she brings him snacks. "He'll stay on the alert," she says, "if I get him off the tractor for ten minutes."

From where I sit, carelessness can cause plenty of harm in our off-the-job personal lives, too. For instance, suppose a neighbor prefers a glass of beer with supper. You might not share this particular preference with him—but if you're careless about protecting his right to choose, your own freedom of choice is in danger of being "plowed under."

It is well known that a period of dryness at hatching time of birds in the wild can play havoc with the hatch. This accounts for the spottiness of bird populations in years of drought. Virginia's quail in many areas undoubtedly failed to hatch last year.

Fortunately, the period of vulnerability because of hard shells is comparatively brief. A little rain at the right time may save a whole covey of young birds.
